

The City of Riverside, in conjunction with I.E. Tech Week cordially invite you to a CIO Executive Luncheon

One of the hottest trends in the Information Technology arena today is Managed Print Services. MPS is promising significant cost reductions at a time in our history when budgets are being squeezed in both public and private sector enterprises. According to IDC, managed print is one of the last remaining areas of IT spending where substantial savings can be realized.

I.T. Professionals find themselves in the center of these organizational challenges and directives, and amidst the many claims of vendors, pundits, and industry experts.

How can my organization benefit from a MPS solution? How do I discover and quantify the savings? What are the risks or barriers? These are questions that leaders in our I.T. community are asking.

The City of Riverside, in conjunction with our I.E. Tech Week cordially invite you to an interactive discussion over lunch that will cover these and other critical areas:

- What's happening with MPS today?
- Measuring your print environment before you manage it
- I.T. Success Stories from similar organizations like yours.
