Riverside Public Utilities Again Designated Reliable Public Power Utility by APPA

Cleveland, OH - Riverside Public Utilities (RPU) was once again recognized as one of the nation's top public power utilities, earning its sixth Reliable Public Power Provider (RP₃[®]) recognition from the American Public Power Association for supplying its consumers with the highest degree of reliable and safe electric services.

The two-year RP₃ designation recognizes public power utilities that demonstrate proficiency in four key disciplines: reliability, safety, workforce development, and system improvement. Criteria within each category are based on sound business practices and represent a utility-wide commitment to safe and reliable delivery of electricity.

"We're very proud to receive this recognition," said RPU General Manager David H. Wright, "as it shows that our staff, our Board of Public Utilities, and our City Council are continually making the right choices which allow us to continue to provide our customer-owners with only the highest quality services."

The APPA, based in Washington, D.C., is the service organization for the nation's more than 2,000 community-owned electric utilities, which collectively serve more than 46 million Americans.

Established in 1895, Riverside Public Utilities is a consumer-owned water and electric utility governed by a board of nine community volunteers that provides high quality, reliable services to over 106,000 metered electric customers and up to 64,000 metered water customers throughout the City of Riverside. The Utility is committed to increased use of renewable energy resources and sustainable living practices that help reduce environmental impacts within the City of Riverside and the state of California.
