17th Annual El Protector Soccer Clinic

Riverside, CA – The El Protector Coalition and the Riverside Police Foundation are holding the 17th annual El Protector Soccer Clinic on October 20, 2012 from 9 am until 3 pm at Bobby Bonds Park and Sports Complex (2060 University Ave, Riverside CA 92507).

The El Protector Coalition is comprised of public safety agencies and educational institutions including: The Riverside Police Department, University of Riverside Police Department, California Highway Patrol, Riverside County Sheriff's Department, Corona Police Department, Riverside Community College Police Department, Riverside Fire Department and the University of Riverside.

The goal of this program is to bring public education and outreach programs to the Spanish speaking community. Each year since the inception of the "El Protector" program in 1995, we have been able to entertain and educate our youth through the presentation of our "Annual Soccer Clinic." For the past 16 years El Protector has hosted the clinic and played the roles of coaches and mentors during this event that helps to build character and teach sportsmanship, while delivering our most important message, "Be Cool, Stay in School."

As a non-profit program, El Protector has relied upon donations from individual donors, city and county entities, as well as corporate sponsors. This program is not supported monetarily by any of our individual employers, and the time invested by our members is non-compensated. Our rewards come by way of the 300 smiles that greet us each year as we take the field this year at Bobby Bonds Park on October 20, 2012 for a full day of fun, food, soccer, free tee-shirts, entertainment, police and public safety displays, and educational workshops for the parents.
