CITY OF RIVERSIDE PUBLIC UTILITIES

California's First

Emerald City

Riverside was recently chosen by California as the first city in the state to receive the "Emerald City" designation for its efforts in sustainable living activities, including renewable energy.

The City of Riverside will be part of a groundbreaking pilot project in which the state will lend resources and expertise to the City's green initiatives. In return, the state will gauge the progress of the programs to compile a guide to aid other California cities in their efforts to attain their sustainable resource and conservation goals.
